Birdhouse

The first paragraph is given:
You will need one plank, 15 x 150 cm. Size: The planks for the roof and the four walls should all be 25 cm long and the floor 19 cm long. In addition, you need nails, screws and proper tools, plus some paint.

Correct order of the other paragraphs:

Measuring and cutting the planks is the first stage: 5 pieces 25 cm long (walls and roof); 1 piece 19 cm long (bottom). Use untreated wood, spruce or pine, preferably planks which are smooth on one side and not on the other. Use the same type of planks for the walls, ceiling and floor.

Drill a round hole in one wall for bird entrance. The size of the hole decides who will live in the birdhouse. Great tits and black and white flycatchers prefer a hole with a diameter of 3.2 cm, while blue tits require a smaller diameter of 2.8 cm. Drill two small holes in the floor to allow water to drain.

Cutting and drilling done, it is time to join the four walls together securely using nails or screws. Be careful to avoid splitting of the planks when joining them.

Fit the bottom in between the walls and nail it in place. Remember to have the rough side inside (the birds need something climb on). Then, paint the outer parts of the birdhouse for protection against weather.

Now you only need to get the roof in place. It may be a good idea to have slightly larger holes for the nails to allow for easy removal of the roof. Check that the birdhouse can be easily opened and closed in this way. This will allow you to inspect when necessary. Time to get the binoculars out and wait for the tenants to move in.
